Bay St. Louis city employees work on Court St. on Tuesday as part of Phase One of a two-phase project to improve streets and drainage in the city.

Merchants say street work is hurting business

he good news is that road work in the downtown area of Bay St. Louis should be completed by next Friday. Public works director Ron Vanney said yesterday that asphalt work will take about 10 days and should be under way this week. the downtown area have some downtown business owners concerned. Many say they received no notice that the streets were about to be torn up and can't imagine what the city was thinking when they began the project at the height of the tourist season.

"I question the wisdom of tearing the streets up in the middle of our tourist season," said Purple Snapper-owner Mickey Evans. "The tourists are not familiar with the area and don't know what streets you can use to go around construction."

Court St., a one-way street ← most of which is only accessible from the beach - remained closed at the Beach Blvd. entrance for days, causing confusion for many employees and customers. Word spread that the street could be used as a twoway thoroughfare, but the oneway sign remained up at the end of the street, making it unclear which way to go.

That was still the case last week when the nation bid a final farewell to the 93-year-old former president.

What I wrote about Reagan in 1984 was after I covered his last appearance in this state for a beachfront speech at Gulfport. It drew hero worship for a politician to an extent I have never seen in Mississippi before, or since,

Orphan as Father:

A Commentary for this Father's Day

BY BEN W. MCCLELLAND

What difference does a day make, when the day in question is Father's Day? The beneficial effects of a nurturing father on his children are deep and lasting. Similarly profound are the debilitating effects of an abusive or an absent father on his children.

In "Crossing the Water," Daniel Robb describes the anger and lack of trust exhibited by some urban adolescents whose fathers were abusive or absent during the boys formative years. These boys became social offenders in an inno-vative program at the Penikese Island School off Cape Cod, Robb teamed with such troubled youths as a surrogate father, striving daily over several months to help them learn to triest others, to respect others rights and property nd to gain a sense of self-

Not all abused or orphaned boys react alike. In my memoir "Soldier's Son," I describe some of the unsettling feelings of an orphaned son. As a youngster, I knew next to nothing about my father, who was killed in World War II. Even though he had been called a war hero, I was bewildered about his identity rather than having feelings of honor and pride for him, My early years were perplex-ing, filled with lasting pain and worry. I wondered who my dad was and, consequently, who I was as his son. An orphan must develop compensatory behaviors in order to free himself from a lack of knowledge about manhood and to avoid allowing himself to be defined as a victim.

In addition, I had the good fortune of having good father figures who enacted bankroller.

Mississippi's delegate votes, made unanimous under the state party's rule, then provided Ford with key votes he needed to win the nomination. History records he later lost the presidential election to Democrat Jimmy Carter, who, incidentally, became the last Democrat to carry Mississippi.

But the redoubtable Reagan reversed all that in 1980, when he finally captured the GOP nomination. Then, he went on to solidly defeat the hard-luck Carter, who was plagued by an OPEC oil-driven inflation spiral and 53 American hostages held in Iran. In retrospect, it's somewhat amazing that Reagan won Mississippi by only 1 percent of the vote.

Unexpectedly, Mississippi in that campaign became a focal point for later criticism that Reagan was insensitive to the civil rights causes held Continued from Page 4A

Republican Today's office-holders from the White House to the state Capitol in Jackson, however, don't understand what Reagan did about taxes: if you cut them and the deficit soars out of sight, you've got to come back and restore or raise some taxes as he did after his big 1981 tax cut.

While Reagan was known as the Great Communicator, he was also the great compromiser, as Mikhail Gorbachev or the late Tip O'Neill could attest.

We certainly could use his style of soft-edged partisan advocacy in today's young arena of political combat.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)-The federal judicial bribery case involving a Mississippi Supreme Court justice and his ex-wife will continue to trial, a judge ruled last week.

District Judge U.S. Henry T. Wingate said attorneys for Justice Oliver Diaz Jr. and his ex-wife Jennifer were wanting to argue the evidence in the case. Wingate said such arguments should be heard at trial.

Pending before Wingate are a series of motions involving prominent Gulf Coast attorney Paul Minor and former judges Wes Teel and John Whitfield. Wingate said those will be addressed when the hearing resumes on June 25 in Jackson:

Minor, the Diazes, Teel and Whitfield are accused of participating in a scheme in which Minor allegedly provided cash, loans and gifts tors. to the judges in exchange for favorable decisions. The five originally were indicted last summer. A new indictment was filed by fedprosecutors

February that charged Diaz and Minor with extortion, besides the fraud and bribery allegations.

The five, who have pleaded innocent, face an Aug. 16 trial. The new indictment added charges that Minor tried to extort money for Diaz from two attorneys whose case was before the Supreme Court.

Robert McDuff, Jackson attorney representing Diaz, said nothing prosecutors alleged was a violation of law. McDuff said the indictment showed nothing that Diaz did anything to benefit Minor. The facts they allege did not constitute a crime."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ruth Morgan told Wingate that prosecutors did not reopening the investigation. have to spell out their case in the indictment. She said the indictment contained all the essential evidence at this stage nothing more is required of prosecu-

The new indictment added charges that Minor tried to extort money for Diaz from two attorneys whose case was before the Supreme Court.

Minor allegedly told the attorneys that Diaz had swung the Supreme Court's vote in favor of their client, and then asked for $20,000 for Diaz while the court considered a motion to rehear the case, according to the indictment. The indictment also expanded the dates of Minor's alleged involvement with Diaz to 1994, when Wingate also denied, for the moment, he said, a gag order sought by federal prosecutors. However, he asked attorneys to be careful in what they said to the news media about the case.

rdinary people became creative artists on Sunday at the Coleman Avenue Coalition's third annual "Spruce Up The Avenue" trash can painting party. About 50 people of all ages turned out for the event in Waveland.

"This is always such a fun family day," said Coalition president Kathy Pinn. "This is our third year and each year we have a terrific time painting trashcans. I am always amazed at the ingenuity and quality of the artwork. Plus we get the added benefit of providing a service to the community. The cans help us keep Coleman Ave. and the beach free of litter."

A DJ provided music for the event and the Coalition provided soft drinks and hot dogs. The Coalition also provided the paint. The metal trash cans were provided by beach supervisors and the City of Waveland, said Pinn. All participants were asked to bring were brushes and their imaginations.

Art work ranged in style from detailed to free style, with some participants actually throwing the paint onto the cans. Mermaids, patriotic themes, flowers, and fish were popular subjects, though one participant dedicated a can to her northern origins with a snow theme. No matter what the painting style, most participants were covered in paint. Luckily, a little soap and water removed the damage.

POWER'S PLAN OF ACTION

With the approach of a hurricane, interruptions of electric service are likely to occur. Mississippi Power crews will try to maintain service during the storm while it's safe for employees to work. After the storm passes, an extensive plan for restoring power to vital community services and to all customers is in place. If needed, crews from neighboring utilities will be on call. Once the storm passes, updated information about restoration will be provided regularly to various local media outlets.

> REPORTING POWER OUTAGES

Mississippi Power has an automated telephone power outage system and numerous telephone operators on duty to take calls from customers. If the lines are busy, continue trying. Line crews will work outage calls as long as it is safe to do so, but when storm conditions become dangerous it will be necessary for crews to suspend work. If electric service is interrupted during the height of the storm, please do not call Mississippi Power at that time. Wait a reasonable time after the winds have subsided before reporting any trouble.

PRECAUTIONS If you see a broken or burning wire, stay away and call Mississippi Power or local authorities. Warn others to keep clear of the fallen line and avoid contact with trees, fences or anything else the line may be touching. If a power line comes in contact with a vehicle, passengers should stay in the vehicle until crews arrive and confirm report an outage. the line is de-energized.

FREEZER CARE Prior to a storm, freezers and refrigerators should be turned to their coldest settings. The more frozen food longer it will remain frozen. Plastic jugs filled with frozen water will also help maintain the cold temperature. Use tape to seal the freezer and make it as airtight as possible. Well-filled freezers will keep most foods frozen for two to three days if the door is kept closed.

AFTER A STORM RESTORATION PLANS

If there is extensive damage to Mississippi Powers electric system, electricity in some areas may not be restored for several days. Customers are asked to be patient. Crews will work as quickly as possible to restore service. If needed,

MISSISSIPPI Mississippi Power workers

In order to satisfy the needs of the greatest number of péople, electric service will be restored on a priority basis. Where possible, electric power will initially be restored to hospitals, law enforcement and other emergency facilities, public service facilities, sewerage systems, water works, and news media organizations. Main power lines from substations will be cleared and repaired first, which will restore power to the maximum number of customers. After that, repair crews will go block-by-block, street-bystreet and home-by-home to restore individual service.

Mississippi Power asks its customers to please be patient and know that crews are working a plan of action to restore the greatest number of customers in the shortest possible time. Please do not make attempts to have line crews respond to individual requests, as it will only delay the overall restoration process.

REPORTING OUTAGES

After the passage of the hurricane, customers should replace any blown fuses or reset any tripped breakers in their homes. If the line connecting the house to the distribution pole is damaged, call to report an outage. 2003 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report City of Bay St Louis PWS ID: 0230001 June 2004

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water source is groundwater, and our wells draw from the Pascagoula and Graham Ferry Formations.

The source water assessment has been completed for our public water system to determine the overall susceptibility of its drinking water supply to identified potential sources of contamination. The general susceptibility rankings assigned to each well of this system are provided immediately below. A report containing detailed information on how the susceptibility determinations were made has been furnished to our public water system and is available for viewing upon request.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Ronnie Vanney or Buddy Zimmerman at (228) 467-2724. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more; please attend any of our regular meetings held on the first Tuesday of each month at 7 PM at the city hall annex located at 111 Court St. Bay St Louis.

The City of Bay St Louis routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2003. As water travels over the land or underground, it can pick up substances or contaminants such as microbes, inorganic and organic chemicals, and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk...

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level - The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed" in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

It is possible that lead levels at your home may be higher than at other homes in the community as a result of materials used in your home's plumbing. If you are concerned about elevated lead levels in your home's water, you may wish to have your water tested and flush your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using tap water. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer landergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

BAY ST. LOUIS, MS -Seventies disco icons. The Village People will perform two shows with The Trammps July 3rd and 4th at 9 p.m. at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis.

If you think our fireworks are hot, wait until you see the "Disco Inferno" these two super-groups churn up as they crank out hits like: "YMCA," "Macho Man," "In the Navy," and of course, "Disco Inferno." What do a cowboy, a construction worker, a Native American, a biker, a police officer and a G.I. have in common? Hits like "YMCA," "Macho Man," "Go West" and "In the Navy" of course! The Village People formed in the late 70's when producer/composer Jacques Morali found Felipe Rose dancing in his Indian costume in a crowd in New York's Greenwich Village.

tion inspired the idea to put together a group of Village icons from various

American social groups. · Soon after, Morali saw Victor Willis in Broadway's The Wiz and recruited him to portray the police officer. Willis brought along his friend, Alex Briley to play a G.I. With partner Henri Belolo, Morali held auditions for three more performers and The Village People released their first self-titled record in 1977. Willis was later replaced by Ray Simpson, and presently Jeff Olson plays the cowboy, David Hodo is the construction worker and Eric Anzalone completes the six as the biker.

After 27 years together, the Village People have sold more than 65 million recordings and been featured in a variety of magazines and television shows. The band continues to perform sell out concerts around the globe.

The Trammps began their disco dreams in Philadelphia in 1972 and still tour today with four of the original members: Jimmy Ellis, Harold Wade, Stanley Wade and John Hart. The group's best known song was "Disco Inferno" which was featured in the motion picture Saturday Night Fever and earned the group a Grammy Award in 1979. Other Trammps songs to chart included! "Where Happy People Go," "The Night the Lights Went Out" and "I Feel Like I've Been Livin' (On the Dark Side of the until the group performed

Doo-Wop At Magic With Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons

BAY ST. LOUIS, MS - The undisputed kings of doowop, Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons will perform two concerts at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on July 23 & 24 at 9 p.m. Tickets are available for $19.95, $24.95 and $29.95 at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 through any Ticketmaster roll.

Possessed of one of the most distinctive voices in all of rock and roll, Frankie Valli continues to dazzle. Valli's incredible career as a solo artist and with the Four Seasons has produced 19 top ten hits and sold over 100 million records world wide. A few of his hits include: "Sherry," "Big Girls Don't Cry," "Walk Like A Man," "Candy Girl," "My You," Adored December 1963 (Oh What A Night)" "Grease," "Rag-Doll," "Let's Hang On," and "Can't Take My Eyes Off Of Frankie Valli's earliest performances were informal affairs; he sang doo-wop to passers-by on Newark street corners. In the early fifties, Frankie Valli joined Nick Massi and Tommy DeVito in performing with their Variety Trio. The group later signed Valli on as a full member and began making a name for themselves while touring the East Coast. Around that time Frankie and the group began an association with songwriter. Bob Gaudio. That relationship has continued for nearly forty years, and Gaudio remains an integral part of Frankie Valli's career. In 1962 Gaudio wrote a song called "Jackie", named after Jacqueline Kennedy. It was written in about 15 minutes. Bob Crewe took it to Vee-Jay Records after changing the name at the last minute to "Sherry". Sherry was released in the summer and moved slowly Don't miss the Village Bandstand"...."Sherry" sold and the Four Seasons into rock and roll superstardom. With "Sherry," the Four Seasons had crystallized a musical distinctive style...the popular doo-wop music of the 1950's inflected with the rhythm and blues influences that would come to define much of the music of the 1960's. With Frankie's dazzling falsetto as its trademark, the Four Season's sound would become one of the most enduring in all of rock and

Over the next few years, the Four Seasons followed "Sherry" with such unforgettable original songs as "Big Girls Don't Cry," "Walk Like a Man," "Candy Girl," and "Rag Doll", all of which became rock and roll classics. While remaining steadfastly devoted to the Four Seasons, Frankie Valli decided to branch out with his own solo record. In 1966 he scored a Top 40 hit with "You're Gonna Hurt Yourself." That same year the Four Seasons reached the number three spot on the pop charts with "Let's Hang On:" For the next several years Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons continued to tour extensively, playing to packed houses throughout the United States, Europe and Asia. In 1974 Frankie was back on top of the charts, going platinum with the bittersweet ballad "My Eyes Adored You". "Swearin' to God," with its disco beat and contemporary sensibilities went gold, climbing to number six in 1975. That same year "Our Day Will Come" reached No. 11 on the charts. In March of 1976, "December, 1963 (Oh, What a Night)" climbed to No. 1 staying at the top for 3 weeks. Frankie scored another mega hit in 1978, with the title track of the best-selling "Grease" sound-

More "December, 1963 (Oh, What a Night)" appeared on the soundtrack to Forest Gump, and re-entered the singles chart. Because of this second lease on life, it became in history (with fifty total weeks. Frankie Valli has continued to woo audiences throughout the world, both with his recordings and live performances for almost four decades, truly making him one of rock and roll's most enduring performers.
